

LAWYER SEEKS FATHER,
MISSING SINCE FRIDAYSon Fears for Safety of Joseph
Ansbacher, Who Disappeared
From His Home.

Joseph Ansbacher, father of Jacob Ansbacher, a lawyer, of No. 2 Rector street, has been missing since last Friday morning, and a widespread, careful search has revealed no trace of his whereabouts. Although he was well known, no one has been found who saw him after he walked out of the door of his home, No. 415 West Thirty-eighth street.

Mr. Ansbacher is fifty-seven years old but looks younger. He weighs about 160 pounds, is 5 feet 6 inches tall, has dark brown hair and mustache streaked with gray. The hair is scant. When he disappeared he wore a blue serge coat, striped trousers, soft shirt, white collar, black and white striped tie, soft black hat and black striped shoes.

GAS STOVE BLOWS UP.

Servant Girl Badly Injured in Bronx Flat.

Anna Schwartz, a servant employed by Mrs. Rose Rosenwald of No. 938 110th avenue, the Bronx, waited so long this morning before applying a match to the gas stove that the oven had filled with gas and it blew up. Her shirtwaist took fire and she rushed screaming through the flat.

Mrs. Rosenwald wrapped her in a quilt and extinguished the blaze. Then she called in Dr. Steinberg, who took the girl to Lehighon Hospital. The girl's arms, chest and neck were burned, but she probably will recover.

Hired Bowery Room to Die.
Max Sile, a tailor, was taken from a tiny cubbyhole of a room in the Puritan Hotel, at Bowery and Delancey street, to Gouverneur Hospital to-day. He registered at the hotel last night and his only baggage was a bit of rubber tubing which he carried in his pocket. He connected that up with the gas jet and lay down to die. A card in his pocket gave the address No. 25 Auburn street, Boston.
